Helping residents create community gardens and cultivate plants and crops in both urban and rural areas

Structure : Let's share the gardens

Toulouse Occitanie

Partageons les jardins is an organization that promotes gardening as a means of fostering social connections and reconnecting with the natural world.

In partnership with local governments, real estate developers, and social housing providers, we support the development of participatory, ecological, and community-focused gardening projects.

We use a methodology based on community consultation that fosters personal responsibility, social diversity, and individual and collective well-being.

Since its founding in 2012, Parteons les jardins has been connecting community and collective gardening stakeholders in the Toulouse region.

Since 2021, we have partnered with the Haute-Garonne Departmental Council to unite and sustain the department’s community gardens—whether shared, family-run, educational, or community-focused.

To meet their needs, we share gardening-related resources and organize workshops, training sessions, and events promoting sustainable and community-based gardening.
