La Grande Conserve is a platform for secondhand materials.

An innovative player in the circular economy and the social and solidarity economy, and a social integration enterprise, La Grande Conserve offers a range of services for businesses, the public sector, and individuals.

At the heart of their business: the reuse of construction materials for businesses and individuals for ecological purposes.

Any operation in which products or components that are not waste are reused for a purpose identical to that for which they were originally designed. Reuse may include the selection, inspection, cleaning, repair, refurbishment, and redesign of products and product components—that is, any operation performed on products or components with a view to reuse by their owner or purchaser.

As an innovative player in the circular economy, the social and solidarity economy, and a social integration enterprise, we offer a range of services for businesses, the public sector, and individuals.

Our services are designed to provide you with a solution tailored to your reuse needs.
