The association aims to inspire change among students, citizens, and organizations, encouraging them to adopt behaviors that are more respectful of the environment and all living things.

Our vision

Through various means, the association is committed to raising awareness and sharing scientific knowledge in fun, educational, and accessible ways. Because we believe that the collective takes precedence over individualism, and that it will be the driving force behind a successful socio-ecological transition, we will give everyone the opportunity to express themselves and be heard. We will strive to make grassroots, citizen-led, and inclusive initiatives accessible, with a commitment to openness to everyone within the association. We prioritize the collective, collaboration, and debate over individual discourse and dogma.

Our values

The values upheld by Impulse MTEEC were established through a collective consultation with the association's future members. They reflect the will of the members, as well as the values promoted by the Master's in Management of Ecological Transition and the Circular Economy (MTEEC).

- Ecology
- Respect and Compassion
- Listening, communication, and mutual support
- Horizontality
- Agility and change

The Master's in Management of Ecological Transition and the Circular Economy aims to train transition managers in the fields of ecological and circular economy projects and corporate and organizational social responsibility. It seeks to provide managerial insights into major ecological and social challenges in light of the Sustainable Development Goals set by the UN for 2030.
