and International

The Terre Solidaire Foundation is convinced that our development model must be rethought to take planetary boundaries into account. Thus, it identifies and financially supports concrete and innovative solutions capable of making a difference to accelerate the ecological transition of our societies. A true lever for transformation, this ecological transition must also work toward greater justice and solidarity.

These initiatives in favor of an ecological and solidarity-based transition are led in local communities by women and men committed to new modes of production and consumption. They promote sustainable agriculture, new economic models, the energy transition, and environmental protection.

From its inception, the Terre Solidaire Foundation has chosen to host foundations established by individuals eager to get involved in projects aligned with its missions, thereby responding to the requests of many people wishing to bring their ideas and generosity to life.

From 2016 to 2024, 9 affiliated foundations were hosted. They supported 425 projects (including 288 in France) with a total of €4.6 million in committed grants.
