Sustainable, community-oriented, and... custom-designed homes...

éCOhabitons offers an alternative to traditional housing by creating eco-friendly, affordable homes designed for sharing and community living. This vision attracts households ready to live in a harmonious environment, founded on values of solidarity and respect for the environment

Initiating and supporting participatory projects

The association supports every stage of participatory housing projects: forming groups, searching for land, architectural design, and collaborating with local partners. This support enables members to bring their ideas to life while learning about sustainable construction practices and benefiting from logistical support

A network of committed partners

Participatory housing projects attract architects, builders, and social housing providers who share our vision. We foster fruitful and respectful collaborations, preserving your complete independence and your lifestyle choices.
