Measuring the carbon footprint and ways to take action

Structure : Association for Low-Carbon Transition (ABC)

Difficulté : facile

Paris Île-de-France

At the forefront of the fight against climate change since 2011 with our Bilan Carbone® method, ABC (Association Bas Carbone) raises awareness, educates, brings people together, and provides concrete tools for action to organizations and citizens to successfully achieve their low-carbon transition.

The Association for the Low-Carbon Transition (ABC)—formerly the Carbon Footprint Association—was founded in 2011 by ADEME and APCC to promote and disseminate the Carbon Footprint® methodology. It provides organizations and citizens with tools and methods to help them successfully define and implement their decarbonization strategies.

Through its missions, the association aims to mobilize and educate as many stakeholders as possible (organizations and citizens) on the challenges related to the fight against climate change.
