Facilitate dialogue between science and society through a variety of events

Structure : Science and Society, University of Montpellier

Difficulté : facile

Montpellier Occitanie

The University of Montpellier's Science Communication Services coordinate the dialogue between science and society through a variety of events, both on the university's campuses and off-campus, for an audience of citizens, university students, high school students, and schoolchildren.

Our objectives

- Make science accessible to anyone curious about science
- Encourage dialogue between scientists and the general public
- To approach science from an original, innovative, and fun perspective

Our missions

- The dissemination and popularization of scientific knowledge
- Science outreach
- Designing and co-creating events, initiatives, and products related to scientific culture
- Exhibition rentals
- Training students in science communication and museography (from bachelor's to master's level)
