Who are we?

The Indre Departmental Association for the Development of Agricultural and Rural Employment brings together farmers, project leaders, and citizens committed to the development of small-scale farming: a form of agriculture that respects the work and role of farmers, the environment, and citizens.

Founded in 1995 by farmers, this nonprofit organization under the 1901 law is the training and development partner of the Confédération paysanne.

ADEARI in a few figures:

- 110 agricultural project leaders supported.
- 68 farmers looking to retire were identified, 30 of whom received support.
- Specialization in supporting projects led by people without a background in agriculture, with a network that supports nearly 60% of such start-ups.
- 3 program coordinators promoting small-scale farming

- More than 39 training sessions organized throughout the Centre-Val de Loire region.
- More than 700 people support the network.
